ONLINE COURSES STARTING FEBRUARY 1, 2021

ANTH 100  Introduction to Anthropology
An introduction to the anthropological concept of culture, its uses in the explanation of human behaviour, and its impact on our understanding of human nature, language, and society. The course will explore cultural diversity through the comparative perspective that makes anthropology unique within the humanities and social sciences.

ART 220  Two-Dimensional Art
Through hands-on studio projects, students will draw, paint, use print media, photography, and intermedia processes to develop a working understanding of two-dimensional design principles.

ENGL 100  Critical Reading and Writing I
This course develops students’ proficiency in critical reading and writing through the study of a wide range of non-literary and literary texts, and the study of composition, with emphasis on connections between modes of reading and writing.

KIN 170  Lifestyle, Health and Wellness
The factors which affect and individual’s health will be examined and the potential role of lifestyle choices in the maintenance of health will be discussed. This course will enable the student to become an informed, responsible, active participant in one’s own health.

Dual credit and special projects
High School Accelerated students can earn dual credits or special project credits for their high school transcripts with this program.

STUDENT TESTIMONIALS

“Not only do you gain a credit prior to even beginning university, but you also feel less stressed about any upcoming changes in environment between high school and post-secondary.”
Siham  |  Bachelor of Science

“As a high school student, the idea of going to a university class intimidated me, and taking English 100 introduced me to the new expectations of professors and helped me get accustomed to the workload.”
Jewel  |  Bachelor of Social Work
